The question by U.S Supreme Court in a court case is whether [the federal law] also makes it a crime for state and local officials to accept gratuities — for example, gift cards, lunches, plaques, books, framed photos or the like — that may be given as a token of appreciation after the official act. The answer is no,”

Under the New Jersey’s Local Government Ethics Law, no “gift, favor, loan, political contribution, service, promise of future employment, or other thing of value” may be provided to a local government officer or employee if the gift was given “for the purpose of influencing him, directly or indirectly, in the discharge of his official duties.” A related provision of the law prohibits any local government officer or employee from acting in an official capacity in a scenario that “might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment.”

This webinar will look at the ethical challenges faced, especially around the holiday season. Do I give gifts to the office staff, do I have to give a gift to the boss...can I accept gifts from vendors, friends, supervisors? The webinar will also look at recent case law regarding gifts or gratuity – you be the judge.
