Records management in state and local government has developed beyond a simply administrative role. It now plays a key role in supporting transparency, compliance, and public trust. As agencies adopt cloud platforms and explore AI, records programs are expected to modify without adding risk. At the same time, teams are managing increasing volumes of digital records across more systems, often with limited resources, while still needing to remain compliant and defensible.

This webinar offers the Public Agency Records Custodian strategies for managing AI, Digital & Electronic Records in today's digital landscape and provides an overview of established and emerging record-keeping methodologies all while in compliance with the NJ Public Records Laws:

- Digital Database Systems
- Social Media and Internet Records
- Email and Communications Management
- Artificial Intelligence (AI) in Records Management
- Block Chain and Record Integrity
- NJ Legal, Ethical, and Compliance
